

Guy Lee Eutsler

1921 - 2007

Mr. Eutsler was born in Tyro, Kansas and grew up in Oklahoma where his father was a pumper with Sinclair Oil Company. After serving in the U.S. Army, Mr. Eutsler began his own oilfield career as a “jug hustler” for Cities Service seismograph oil exploration. In 1951, he moved to El Dorado and worked as a roustabout for Cities Service. As his career with the company advanced, he worked in the electrical department. In 1967, Mr. Eutsler was promoted as the company’s “safety man,” a position he held until his retirement. He worked 36 years in the oil business. The most enjoyable part of his career was the people with whom he worked because together they made the company successful as well as his work meaningful.
